Writers ' Challenge

"And Sometimes There'll Be Sorrow" by Christopher Woods; <http://christopherwoods.zenfolio.com/>

A Thousand Words...

"To photograph truthfully and effectively is to see beneath the surfaces and record the qualities of nature and humanity which live or are latent in all things"—Ansel Adams

"A photograph is a secret about a secret. The more it tells you the less you know"—Diane Arbus

For this edition of Writers' Challenge, we are trying something a bit different and unlocking the wonder of another medium for inspiration. If a picture is worth a thousand words, then your challenge is to provide those words. Tell us what circumstances created this image. We encourage you toward the unexpected. We won't be providing a beginning sentence or required words for this as we don't want to influence your direction. This poignant image speaks for itself and could be the unfolding of countless stories. You may choose to respond to the image via fiction, poetry or non-fiction.

Word Limit: 1,000

Line Limit (poetry): 40

The winner shall receive a $25 giftcard to Barnes & Noble bookstore and have their entry published in the upcoming issue. Please send entries to contests@thewriteplaceatthewritetime.org by August 15th.
